Union members upset over negotiation snags

'All's well' reports on firemen early

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald City Editor

Any reports that "all's well" in the Washington C.H. Fire Department are a bit premature.

The 10 members of the local firefighters union are apparently upset with the city's failure to negotiate two points of an agreement made early Saturday morning that convinced the firemen to abandon a staged sick-out.

The agreement hammered out late Friday night by City Council offered the firemen a five per cent pay increase effective Jan. 1, and eight additional hours of vacation time.

Included in the proposal were clauses stating no disciplinary action will be taken against the firemen, work missed during the apparent sick-out would be charged against their accumulated vacation time, and there would be no further negotiations with the fire department until Jan. 1, 1979.

The 10 firefighters went back on the job Saturday and tentatively agreed with the proposal if a "few minor changes" could be made.

Included in those changes, which the firemen feel are minor points of negotiation, is a provision to make the five per cent pay increase retroactive to last July when the firemen lost benefits in sick leave, vacation time, and holiday pay.

The local union members also hoped to have the means of receiving the five per cent salary increase altered.

Under Council's proposal, the firemen would be moved up one pay range—from range 15e to range 16e for regular firefighters. This would account for approximately a five per cent pay increase.

The firemen were hoping Council would move them from range 15e to 17d, which would reportedly account for the same five per cent salary hike, but would make the firemen eligible for merit raises.

The firemen also asked that the fire department employees be included in any future city-wide salary increases passed by Council.

These three provisions did not appear in a revised agreement drafted by Council during an executive session Monday night.

In that revised agreement, Council did make a few changes. One clarified the granting of additional vacation hours and the other would allow firemen to negotiate work conditions in the fire department.

Local union president Cecil D. Seaman told Council last night that the firefighters were willing to forget the two level increase in salary range—from 15e to 17d—if the retroactive pay and the inclusion of firemen in any city-wide pay increases are written into the agreement.

Council member John Morris said he was willing to accept either the retroactive pay or the insurance of firemen's pay increases, but not both. "This give one and let's forget one," Morris said during open Council session Wednesday night.

Seaman said he didn't have authorization from the other firefighters to accept such a compromise.

Council Chairman Mrs. Bertha McCullough asked Seaman to "bring a proposal to us."

She said an ordinance approving an agreement between the city and firemen would be presented at the next

Council meeting scheduled for Dec. 14 and she was sure the problems could be settled.

Seaman and four other firefighters left the meeting to meet with the rest of the union members. Before the Council meeting had ended Wednesday night, he returned with a message for Council.

He reportedly told Mrs. McCullough that if no agreement is reached by Dec. 14, the firemen would walk off their

Council awards contract

City sewer project construction looms

After years of study, construction work on the multi-million dollar Washington C.H. sewer project is set to begin.

The City Council suspended the rules Wednesday night and passed an ordinance after two readings awarding the $10 million installation of sewer line contract to the Complete General Construction Co., of Columbus.

City Manager George Shapter now has the authority to sign the construction contracts with the Columbus firm and work can begin immediately.

"There always seems to be deadlines to meet and this happens to be another one," Council Chairman Mrs. Bertha McCullough said.

She said the consulting engineers needed the ordinance passed immediately to meet EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) deadlines, and urged the suspension of rules.

Her request was granted by a 6-1 vote by Council with Billie Wilson, a longtime opponent of the sewer project, casting the lone negative vote.

Newly seated Council member Jack Balahtsis voted for the ordinance admitting he was not briefed 100 per cent on the project.

"Due to the fact that a majority of Council has been for the project, I will support it," Balahtsis said shortly before casting his first vote as a Council member.

The ordinance was placed on first reading earlier this month despite objections from the Williams Excavating Co. of Lima, which contended it had submitted the low bid on a portion of the project.

The construction work was bid on six different contracts representing six sections of the city. Preliminary reports on the bidding showed the Columbus firm was the low bidder on four of the six contracts and the Lima firm was the low bidder on the remaining two contracts.

After the city's consulting engineering firm of C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., studied the intricate bid proposals, it was discovered that the Columbus firm had submitted the low bid on all six contracts.

City Law Director Gary Smith agreed with the engineers' findings that the Columbus firm had the lowest overall bid.

Over the objections of an attorney for the Lima firm, the ordinance awarding the contracts to the Columbus firm was placed on first reading.

The total bid by the Columbus firm was slightly under $10,500,000 and slightly over the engineer's original estimates.

This brings the total cost of the preliminary construction phase to approximately $12 million. The city will be charged 25 per cent or $3 million of that cost.

The remaining $9 million will be covered by a federal grant issued to the city earlier this year.

The city's share of the costs will be financed through the Ohio Water Development Authority (OWDA) which will issue notes backed up by sewer bill payments by city residents.

Once the installation of the sewer lines is completed during the next two years, the city will begin formulating plans for the construction and renovation of a new sewage treatment plant.

Issues challenge to taxpayers

Balahtsis appointed to seat on Council

Jack Balahtsis, 238 Kathryn Court, Monday night issued a challenge to local taxpayers after being seated as a member of Washington C.H. City Council to fill a vacancy created by the Nov. 9 resignation of veteran city legislator Ralph L. Cook.

"Every taxpayer who has a better way to run the city can come to a City Council meeting," Balahtsis said. "There are too many rumors and false allegations... and people should come to Council meetings to find out what's going on," he said.

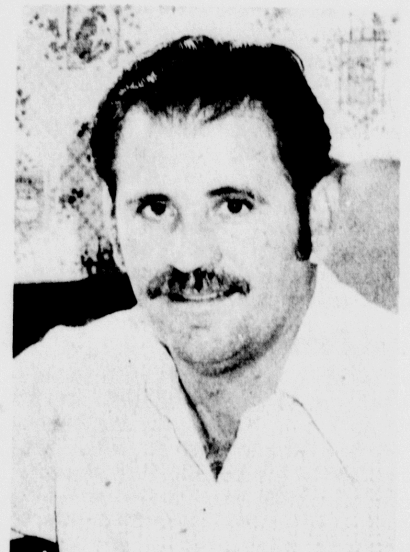

The 40-year-old Balahtsis said, "Let's try to make this a better city. Let's do what's best for the city."

The oath of office was administered to Balahtsis by City Law Director Gary D. Smith just prior to the opening of City Council's regular business session Monday night in the Carnegie Public Library.

Balahtsis, owner and president of Jack's Harness Manufacturing Co., 2250 Kenskill Ave., was the second leading vote-getter behind incumbent Willard W. (Billie) Wilson in the Nov. 8 general election.

Before resigning in the wake of defeat, Cook had recommended that Balahtsis be appointed to complete his term on City Council which expires Dec. 31. The term won by Balahtsis will start Jan. 1.

Council formally accepted the resignation of Cook, 1229 High St., at Monday's meeting by a 4-2 vote. Council members Richard P. Kimmel and John F. Morris opposed accepting the resignation letter.

JACK BALAHTSIS

Cook, a veteran of 16 years on Council before being defeated in a bid for reelection to an unprecedented fifth consecutive term, resigned earlier this month and left Council's Nov. 9 meeting abruptly.

Mrs. Bertha M. McCullough, City Council's chairman, said Cook's letter of resignation stated that Washington C.H. residents "no longer stand behind my decisions as a councilman."

Cook, owner and operator of the Cook Home Improvement Co., finished fifth in the Council race which had 11 candidates competing for four seats.

By county commissioners

Lease agreement inked for new welfare offices

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners signed a lease agreement Monday signaling the start of construction on a new office building which will house the county welfare department and the county children's services offices.

The building, which is being constructed on old W. Temple Street by the Burke Monument Co. and the McArthur Realty Co., will offer over 6,000 square feet of office space when it is completed.

The county welfare department and children's services offices presently share a county-owned building at 119 E. Market St. That building offered 3,700 square feet of office space.

The main reason for the change in buildings was inadequate office space, according to County Commissioner Laurence A. (Bucky) Dumford. He said the county is obligated by the state to provide adequate office space to the welfare department.

"We could either build or rent," Dumford said of the commissioners' decision to rent a portion of 50 by 120 foot building after it is built.

Since the county is renting the office space, the state will reimburse the annual rental fee. If the county had decided to build, state aid would have been limited and the county would have to pay the cost.

The yearly rent of offices will cost the county $18,600. All but seven per cent of that cost will be reimbursed by the state.

THE McARTHUR Realty Co. and the Burke Monument Co. submitted the lowest of four bids for construction of a new welfare site in August. Plans for the building were reviewed by the Council sets stage for new city office

Renovation work on a new city administration building can begin as soon as Washington C.H. City Manager George Shapter signs contracts with the low bidders on the project.

The Washington C.H. City Council passed an ordinance Wednesday night authorizing Shapter to sign the contracts which amount to over $175,000 to renovate the building located at 215 E. Market St.

Once the construction work is completed—sometime after the first of the year—the city will have its first permanent municipal building in over five years.

The city purchased the building several months ago for $50,000. It formerly housed the Kirk Auto Parts store.

The remodeling plans call for the large one-floor building to be turned into offices city employees and meeting rooms for City Council.

The low bids for the renovation of the building were far below the architects estimates. The city expected to pay nearly $200,000 for the remodeling work, but after bids were received it was evident the job could be done for $176,000.

The low bidder for the general Contract work is the Bob Boyd Construction Co., of Dayton for $116,861.

The low bidder for electrical work is from Mike Maust Electric of Washington C.H. at $14,575.

The plumbing work will be done by Midwestern Mechanical, Inc., of Columbus, which submitted a low bid of $12,000.

The heating, ventilating and air conditioning work will be handled by the Kirk Williams Co. of Grove City. The low bid was $33,000.

Presently the city leases an office building at 208 N. Fayette St. There are no facilities for Council, planning commission or board of zoning appeals meetings in the office building and the meetings are held in the Carnegie Public Library.

The city's five-year lease on the Fayette Street building expired this month, but the lease was extended with a rental increase by Richard Willis, the owner of the building.

The city had been paying $350 a month rent for most of the office space and $90 a month rent for the adjacent tax office. The rental fees have been increased to $400 and $100 a month respectively.

The city acquired a $250,000 note to cover the purchase and renovation of the building earlier this year. It was hoped that the city could sell surplus land on Fayette Street and the Robinson Road, however the property sale has not been discussed in recent Council meetings.

The contracts for remodeling the building are for 120 days meaning the city should be able to move its offices by March 1.

City to state intent to buy 1.8-mile section

Council endorses railroad restoration plan

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

Washington C.H. City Council Monday night endorsed a proposal from the Community Improvement Corporation (CIC) to restore railroad service to the north side of the Washington C.H. Industrial Park by stating its intent to seek matching federal funds to purchase 1.8 miles of idle track.

Under the preliminary proposal formulated with the Ohio Rail Transportation Authority, the city would apply for a federal grant to pay for 90 per cent of the purchase price as well as a grant for 90 per cent of the initial refurbishing costs and operational expenses.

The city would be jointly reimbursed for its outlay by the CIC and four plants in the Industrial Park affected by the loss of railroad service, according to a proposal submitted at Monday night's meeting by William Mathison, general manager of the Cor Tec, Inc. plant and CIC railroad committee chairman.

It is presently estimated that the city's share of the purchase of the tracks from the now defunct Penn Central Railroad Co. and the refurbishing costs would be $25,000 to $30,000. The funds would be supplied by the CIC.

The Penn Central Railroad Co., which abandoned the tracks following the firm's bankruptcy action, has placed a $150,000 purchase price on the 1.8-mile section of tracks which extend from Sycamore Street eastward to Ohio 753-S. The purchase price would be subject to approval by the trustees of the Penn Central Transportation Co. and the board of directors of the ConRail Co., which actually owns the line.

Service over the tracks was discontinued under the reorganization of railroads under the U.S. Railway Association's final systems plan in July 1975.

Six firms in the Washington C.H. Industrial Park are situated along the now defunct Penn Central track and four of the companies would benefit from the possible restoration of service. They are Cor Tec, Inc., the Bell Dor-Lite Co., Raven Industries, Inc., and the Calmar Division plant. The two other firms, which at present have no need of rail service, are Jack's Harness Manufacturing Co. and Thatcher Plastics Packaging Co.

During the hearings on the possible discontinuation of rail service along the northern border of the 200-acre Industrial Park, Raven, Thatcher, Calmar and Cor Tec's northern plant (formerly the Redman Industries plant) had not yet begun operations. Only Redman Industries and Bell Dor-Lite were in operation, and Redman was closed by a union strike.

In the lease-subsidy proposal presented by Mathison, he said the CIC was only asking the city to "express an intent to ultimately obtain title" to the tracks. "We don't want a firm commitment until it (the plan) has been completely analyzed," he said.

Nat Simons, executive director of the Ohio Rail Transportation Authority, said the City of Washington C.H. would be eligible to apply for matching federal funds for the purchase.

Only "a state or a political subdivision thereof (such as a city)" is eligible for federal funding under the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973, according to Simons.

City Council agreed to state its intent on seeking federal funding for the proposal. Six members were in favor, with Council member Richard P. Kimmel, an employee of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad Co., abstaining from the vote due to a possible conflict of interest.

"It be hooves the City of Washington to write a letter of intent," said Council Chairman Mrs. Bertha M. McCullough, who serves on the CIC board of directors with fellow Council members James F. Ward and Joseph O'Brien.

"It's not going to cost the city any money," O'Brien added.

George A. Malek, executive vice president of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, said the four plants to be served by railroad line currently employ some 600 persons and that they have the potential to more than double that number of employees.

"While restoration of rail service is no guarantee that they will expand, it greatly enhances this possibility," Malek said. "There can be question that expansion becomes more attractive as operating costs are reduced," he added.

Expansion projects are currently under way in several of the plants.

"I think this Council should do everything humanly possible, within reason, to assist the Industrial Park," said Jack Balahtsis, who was seated as a City Council member Monday.

Balahtsis is president of Jack's Harness Manufacturing Co. in the Industrial Park.

Under the current plans, the maintenance and operational costs for four years could also be subsidized in declining amounts. During the years of subsidy, any revenue in excess of the actual maintenance and operating costs would remain with the owner of the track (the city) for future repair.

Numerous alternatives for the restoration of railroad service on the north side of the Industrial Park have been explored by the CIC since 1975.

The first effort was to entice the Chessie System, which has adjacent trackage, to purchase, renovate and serve the 1.8 miles of former Penn Central track.

Since the Chessie System operates track on the south side, the firm reportedly had no interest in the plan. Local officials said the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railroad Co. would not consider an outright purchase.

The DT&I does not have adjacent track, and the firm would require over-track rights on a segment of Chessie System track. Chessie System officials reportedly stated that if the track were purchased by another firm and restored, it would provide service.

A Columbus-based group proposed to lease from the Penn Central the entire track from Washington C.H. to Lancaster and operate it under a federal subsidy program. However, those involved reportedly did not have sufficient financial resources and the proposal was abandoned.

Treason charges eyed

Propaganda campaign to back Sadat visit

CAIRO (AP) — The Egyptian government is mounting a propaganda campaign in support of President Anwar Sadat's visit to Israel as his Arab foes step up their attacks on him.

The charges of treason to the Arab cause from Syria, Iraq, Libya and the Palestinians prompted Sudanese President Jaafar Numairi, bound to Egypt by a defense treaty, to announce he was coming to Cairo today to "congratulate" the Egyptian leader.

An Egyptian government spokesman said Sadat's visit to Jerusalem was the most successful trip he had ever taken because "hostilities of the past 30 years have been ended in 30 hours."

He told the official Middle East News Agency the first public visit by an Arab leader to the Jewish nation succeeded "100 percent" in laying the groundwork for a new Arab-Israeli peace conference in Geneva.

In an apparent attempt to counter the charges that Sadat betrayed the other Arab nations, the spokesman said the president rejected attempts by Israeli leaders to convince him he should sign a separate peace treaty. Sadat told them the only purpose of his visit was to prepare carefully for another Geneva conference, the spokesman said.

"Israeli leaders showed understanding and genuine interest in peace," the spokesman added.

Western observers said the spokesman also was trying to boost the morale of the Egyptian public, which expected Sadat's visit to result in immediate Israeli concessions.

Egypt's three leading newspapers defended the president against his foreign Arab foes.

They emphasized his insistence on full Israeli withdrawal from all lands occupied in the 1967 war, including East Jerusalem.

An estimated 300,000 Egyptians cheered their president at the airport and along the route into Cairo as he returned Monday. But officials had predicted 3 million would turn out.

The Palestinian guerrilla movements and radical Arab governments called Sadat as great an enemy as Israel and continued to urge his overthrow or assassination.

They objected particularly to his declaration in Jerusalem that the 1973 war was Egypt's last with Israel.

Dr. George Habash's Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine vowed to sabotage Sadat's no-war agreement with Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin.

"We shall escalate our operations to prove to the world that no peace can be worked out in the Middle East as long as the Palestinian nation remains oppressed," a spokesman said.

In Washington, about 350 young anti-Sadat Arabs clashed briefly with police on a march to the White House from the Embassy Row section. No injuries were reported.

Critical votes set

State lawmakers brace for marathon sessions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lawmakers braced for a marathon session today with critical votes anticipated on three major, though unrelated, issues as the legislative clock winds down.

Democratic leaders want to adjourn regular 1977 sessions by Wednesday, but have yet to complete action on collective bargaining for public employees, tax breaks for new industry, and bingo for additional charitable organizations.

The first order of business was to clarify language in a conference committee report on collective bargaining that denied strike authorization for policemen and firemen.

A substitute section calling for modified binding arbitration when an impasse is reached with safety forces, was improperly drafted and must be redrawn in conference committee, according to Rep. Leonard J. Camera, D-Lorain.

"It doesn't do what we want it to do," said Camera, a House sponsor of the bill. What the legislators wanted was to give employers the right to refuse to submit to binding arbitration.

Legislation to grant new or expanding industries tax breaks came to the forefront with reports that Ford Motor Co. was considering a southern Ohio site in Clermont County for a new transmission plant.

The House-approved bill lowering the tax on tangible personal property — machinery and equipment — from 46 percent of true market value to 20 percent was seen as the lure.

But Senate Ways and Means Chairman Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-Columbus, said Monday the bill in its present form posed too serious a financial threat to local governments, particularly school districts. County governments collect property taxes and distribute a sizeable share for operation of schools.

"I don't think anyone disagrees," O'Shaughnessy said. "It will cause a sizeable revenue loss."

Sen. William H. Mussey, R-Batavia (Clermont County), disagreed and went through a virtual call-and-response routine at a blackboard rattling off figures as he wrote in an effort to prove his points.

O'Shaughnessy offered an amendment that would allow a tax credit for new equipment for industries when they pay the state-collected corporate franchise tax.

Subsequent amendments were offered to try to cover the hole in the state general revenue fund that could result from O'Shaughnessy's plan.

Despite an obvious split on the committee — three Republican members want the bill as passed by the House — O'Shaughnessy called for "final disposition" of the matter at a meeting Tuesday. That will come after majority Democrats have a chance to plot strategy behind closed doors in caucus.

Camera, meanwhile, hopes to settle remaining differences on a bill that would open up charitable bingo to some more charitable groups, particularly veterans and fraternal organizations, while closing profiteering loopholes.

"I think we're fairly close," he said after a House-Senate conference committee meeting Monday.

One major difference between House and Senate members is over a provision limiting bingo games to two in any one building during a single week. Camera and Rep. Cliff Skeen, D-Akron, want to retain existing law permitting four games a week.

But one problem in existing law concerns rental of vacant super-markets or department stores for bingo games, often only fronted by a charity of some sort.

"Most of our real problem areas come in these commercial halls," an assistant attorney general told the committee. "It's clear that in a large amount of these games, there is a good amount of skimming."

And so the bingo controversy — who should play and under what conditions — goes on, and on, and on.

Stock market posts advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market posted a moderate advance today on news that the increase in consumer prices in October was less than expected.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose more than two points in the early going, and gainers held a 3-2 advantage over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The U.S. Labor Department reported an hour before the market opened that its consumer price index rose only 0.3 percent in October. Analysts had expected an increase of from 0.4 to 0.6 percent in the closely watched index.

Today's early prices included K mart, the most-active stock at the beginning of the session, up 3/4 at 29 1/4; and DuPont, up 1/2 to 122. DuPont announced that it had filed suit against PepsiCo and Hoover Ball & Bearing Co., charging patent infringement on plastic bottles.

On Monday, the Dow Jones industrial average managed a .35 gain to 836.11 after showing a small loss for most of the day.

Advances just barely outnumbered declines on the New York exchange.

Big Board volume totaled 20.11 million shares against 23.93 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index was down .02 at 52.49.

Argentine progress noted

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance flew to Brazil today after reporting "good progress" with the Argentine government on nuclear issues but without achieving major success in the field of human rights.

"I think we made good progress in nuclear matters," Vance said in a departure statement. "... In the field of human rights, we had a far-reaching exchange of views. We were pleased to see that Argentina agreed to endorse the declaration of human rights."

But another U.S. official commented:

"The campaign for improvement of human rights is a process of chipping away little by little. Progress here is just not all at once."

Vance in Brazil

Argentina was the first stop on the secretary's first visit to South America. After conferring with Brazilian leaders in Brasilia today, he winds up his four-day tour Wednesday with a visit to Venezuela.

Vance told reporters human rights occupied "two-thirds of our time" during his meetings with President Jorge Videla and other top officials. A joint communique pledged both governments would protect human rights, and the Argentine government also promised to help strengthen the human rights commission of the Organization of American States.

Sewer project

Then the city will be well on its way to completing the entire project which has been estimated at $24 million.

After the ordinance approving the construction bids was passed Wednesday night, Mrs. McCullough said an incident occurred earlier in the evening which was a dangerous reminder of how much the city needs the improvement project.

She said methane gas was leaking from the city sewer system into the Steen's Dry Goods Store on S. Main Street. The gas is highly flammable and Mrs. McCullough said she felt certain it was at a danger point.

The Washington C.H. Fire Department was called in and Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen confirmed Mrs. McCullough's report.

"It (the gas) was so strong in one of the bathrooms, it would burn your eyes," Denen said.

Grand jury gets Carne drug case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Actress-comedian Judy Carne, smiling but making no statements, returned to Salt Lake City, Utah, Monday after her drug case was sent to a grand jury.

Miss Carne, 38, whose attorney said he believed she was an alien resident from England, was charged by suburban Harrison police with illegal processing of a drug document, a third-degree felony.

Conviction could mean up to 10 years in prison and up to $5,000 fine, court officials said.

Judge William Fellerhoff of Hamilton County Municipal Court dismissed a second charge of possession of marijuana. However, he continued bond at $5,100 because the prosecution said "she could leave the country at any time."

Frank R. Myers of 119 Kennedy Ave., who was injured in an accident in Washington Cemetery last Thursday, is still confined to his home.

City firemen

Two Council members (Morris and Jack Balahtsis) were concerned with the report and went to the fire station after the meeting to talk with the disgruntled firemen.

The firemen restated their position to Morris that the five per cent pay increase was not a raise but simply a way to get back benefits they lost last July.

"The only negotiations that have occurred was among these 10 men (union members)," one firemen said explaining that the firemen were asking for a number of things, but kept cutting their requests in hopes Council would accept some agreement.

"We got it down to the bare bones and then they wanted to negotiate," the firemen added.

Balahtsis huddled with firemen after Morris left the fire station. The newly appointed Council member said he was at the fire station as a concerned taxpayer not a City Council member.

He urged the firemen to have patience and two wait until the Dec. 14 meeting to see what occurred.

The firemen indicated that their patience was wearing thin.

City Council rejects motion for sale of city parking lot

Despite contentions that Municipal Parking Lot No. 2 "is a loser" the Washington C.H. City Council voted down a motion Wednesday to investigate the sale of the property at the intersection of Main and East streets.

Instead Council unanimously passed a motion to investigate ways to improve revenue on that lot.

Discussion on the municipal parking lot surfaced when a note renewal ordinance was introduced at Wednesday night's meeting. The ordinance provides for a payment of $18,600 on Jan. 6 with the renewal amount being $55,800.

The ordinance was declared an emergency and placed on first reading at the Council meeting by a 6-1 vote. Council member John Morris cast the lone negative vote.

"I have serious reservations on lot No. 2—it's still a loser," Morris told Council after the ordinance was voted on. "I know we have to pay the note, but I think we should look into selling the property."

Council member Richard Kimmert agreed with Morris and the motion was made to investigate selling the lot. Only Kimmert and Morris voted yes as the motion failed 2-5.

"The parking lot is essential to downtown businesses," Council member James Ward said.

"If you want to maintain the downtown area as an entity, we should develop the off-street parking," Council member Billie Wilson said.

Morris still urged that some action be taken because the parking lot has lost money every year.

George Malek, executive vice president of the Washington C.H. Chamber of Commerce, proposed that the city rent spaces on the lot on a monthly basis. He said employees of downtown businesses might be interested in renting spaces, and employers would probably accept such a plan, because it would open up parking spaces near or in front of businesses for patrons.

Council appeared to support Malek's suggestion and a motion was made to investigate ways to improve revenue on the parking lot. It passed by a 7-0 vote.

Council discussed and took some action on a number of items Wednesday night.

BOARD APPOINTMENTS

Council member Kimmert urged the city to quickly make an appointment to the local Civil Service Commission to replace William Ward who recently resigned his position.

He said that since there are presently problems with employees of the city fire department, an appointment should be made in the near future.

City Manager George Shapter reported that he received a list of nominees from the Fayette County Executive Committee for Council's consideration, but no such list has been submitted by the Republican Executive Committee.

The appointments to the three-member Civil Service Commission are political.

Shapter said that if all nominees are received in time and Council has determined the appointees, he could prepare the necessary legislation to make the actual appointment at the Dec. 14 meeting.

Council adopted a resolution Wednesday thanking William Ward for his two years of service on the Civil Service Commission. Ward resigned earlier this month, because he moved from the city.

GRADE CROSSINGS

An ordinance allowing the Ohio Department of Transportation (ODOT) to begin railroad crossing grade improvement was placed on first reading Wednesday night.

Similar ordinances allowing construction work by the ODOT within the city limits have been approved by Council in the past. The measure was simply a formality granting ODOT the city's consent in the road improvement project.

SALARY ADJUSTMENT

An ordinance adjusting the pay of the Municipal Court clerk was placed on first reading last night by a unanimous vote.

Once the ordinance is passed the clerk will receive $9,012.80 per year.

The clerk did not receive a 15 per cent pay hike this past summer when a city-wide pay increase was granted. Her salary had been set by the municipal court judge.

The salary granted in the ordinance adjusted the clerk's salary to that of other city employees who received a 15 per cent raise.

TELEPHONE TROUBLES

The discontinuation of a certain type of phone service by Ohio Bell prompted one city resident to request the aid of the City Council in protesting the action with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO).

Jerry Shaw submitted a letter to Council stating that an off-premises extension phone service had been terminated. He reportedly used the service in his business and has protested the action with the PUCO.

Council Chairman Mrs. Bertha McCullough said all the city could do is write a letter and Shaw had apparently already contacted PUCO. No action was taken.

On Carolyn Road

Local driver cited in accident damaging two yards, parked car

A 16-year-old local youth was cited Monday after he lost control of his vehicle along the 500 block of Carolyn Road, caused damages to two front yards and struck a parked car.

Thomas Upthegrove Jr., 16, of 736 Rawlings St., lost control of his car about 3:55 p.m. after rounding the corner on Carolyn Road, according to a Washington C.H. Police Department report.

The vehicle reportedly ran up on the front yard of Eddie L. Pendergraft's home, 508 Carolyn Road, crashed through a yard fence at David L. Penn's home, 516 Carolyn Road, and struck a parked car belonging to Penn.

The impact with the parked vehicle knocked it into Penn's front porch causing moderate damage. Both cars were sustained severe damage, according to police officers.

Police officers cited Upthegrove for reckless operation.

A car was severely damaged when it and a semi tractor-trailer sideswiped each other Monday on U.S. 35 less than a half-mile southeast of Cisco Road.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported Delbert A. Wright, 25, of 561 Woodland Drive-SW, was driving her car southeast on U.S. 35 and Richard J. Daugherty, 33, of Fredonia, Wisc., the semi driver, was headed northwest when the collision occurred about 8:30 a.m.

Sheriff's deputies said they were unable to determine the point of impact. The debris from the crash had been spread out over the highway by passing vehicles. Neither driver was injured.

A single-car accident at the intersection of Delaware and E. Paint streets Monday resulted in minor damage to the vehicle, according to another police department report.

Police officers stated Mary A. Graves, 56, 235 Hickory St., applied her brakes as she approached the intersection on Delaware Street, but the car slid on the wet pavement and struck the stop sign post. The accident occurred around 11:45 a.m. Ms. Graves was uninjured.

In one other minor accident Monday morning, police officers reported a hit-skip driver was apparently un-parking in the parking lot of Ev's Food

Lawrence County land transferred

CHICAGO (AP) — Fifteen acres of property owned by the U.S. Army in Lawrence County are being transferred to the county for park and recreational use, Jay Solomon, administrator of the U.S. General Services Administration, has announced.

The county plans to construct game courts and picnic facilities in the area near the Ohio River known as "Lock and Dam 28."

The property is valued at $148,000.

FIRE CONTRACT

A proposed fire contract with Union Township has been under study by Council for some time, but there are apparently still some problems that haven't been worked out.

The contract was discussed briefly Wednesday night before it was shelved until a future date.

The city is attempting to work out an agreement with the Union Township Trustees that would increase the township share of the operational costs of the fire department.

GARAGE IMPROVEMENTS

Kimmert told fellow Council members that he recently checked the city garage and there are improvements to be made.

He said there was a large crack in the garage's main door and something should be done to remedy the problem.

"I feel those people (street department workers) had to put up with that last winter, and they shouldn't have to do it again.

LARGER SIGN

During the call to voters and taxpayers, Chester Hamulak of 1028 Center St. said a "one-way street-do not enter" sign at the intersection of Olive Street and Columbus Avenue was too small.

He said a larger, more noticeable sign should be placed at that section of the one-way street for safety purposes.

Mrs. McCullough directed the city manager to investigate the matter.

STREET SWEEPER

Council's finance committee recommended that specifications for a new street sweeper should be drawn up and then a study on financing the purchase of the sweeper should be made.

"I see no immediate need to move on it," Morris, chairman of the finance committee, said, "other than to get the specs (specifications) out."

Ruth told police he was parked in the lot around 8 a.m., but did not notice the damage until he had returned home.

Opinion And Comment

A question of conflict

Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois no doubt is to be commended for being the first to comply with new Senate requirements for disclosure of net worth. His initiative is less worthy of comment in itself, however, than for the light it sheds on potential conflicts of interest in Congress.

Members of the Senate tend to be severe about such conflicts as they affect presidential appointees. They admonish such appointees about placing conspicuous holdings into blind trusts, and otherwise insulating themselves against temptation. Variations are often played on the theme that Caesar's wife must be above suspicion. Yet the fact is that numerous members of both Houses have outside interests and financial holdings which pose evident conflicts.

We have no wish to single out Senator Percy; he deserves credit for being in the vanguard of private assets disclosure, and was a strong supporter of legislation providing for this. It is just that the information he offers is at hand for illustrative purposes.

In this spirit, and without judging whether conflicts of interest may be involved, we note these items from the Percy report: he and his wife own stock worth from a quarter of a million to half a million dollars in a machine tool company, Sullair Corp., and a similar amount of stock in Envirotech Corp.; in all, he lists holdings in more than 60 banks and business firms.

Percy is better off than many of his colleagues, but men of substantial wealth are not rare in Congress. Many not only have substantial corporate interests, but also continue to be active in business or professions.

Sometimes these outside interests and activities are in conflict with legislative responsibilities. Disclosure of assets gives the voters some basis for judgment in such matters, but this alone does not suffice to neutralize potential conflicts of interest. It is an open question whether divestiture or some arrangement such as a blind trust should not also be required.

Drama unfolding

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Apparently it doesn't take much to lift the spirits of Americans, who the opinion research people say have been depressed and shaken by the condition of their national economy.

When in that mood, it has been argued, people don't take chances, they don't spend money, they don't make plans. And because they don't the economy drops deeper and they become more depressed.

It is then that the federal government tries to play doctor, devising intricate plans that finally get under way 12 months later, by which time the poor consumer might already have managed to drag himself to an upright position.

But a drama has unfolded in recent days, and the moral of it seems to be that if Washington got its house in order there would be released a burst of confidence and energy of the kind that built the country.

It begins with reports from the people who claim to measure consumer confidence. People aren't very happy about current conditions or future prospects, they have been saying. People are apprehensive.

One of the surveys, released Nov. 17 by Citicorp, declared that "faith in the future of the economy has hit the lowest point of the year." Forty-six percent of respondents, it said, felt business would worsen.

Checking further, one sees that the random sampling of 1,404 adults took place in September. To say, therefore, that people feel the same in mid-November as they did in September is to make an undocumented assumption.

But one company, Sindlinger & Co., conducts its surveys on a daily basis, by telephone, seven days a week out. It could provide more recent data, and it did. It confirmed the depressing news.

In fact, said Albert Sindlinger, chairman of the research firm, data to November 9 indicated so depressing a situation that he felt a recession would begin by the end of the year, and that stocks would fall in 1978.

And then the news out of Washington hit the consumers and the consumers' attitudes hit the computers.

President Carter and Arthur Burns, the Federal Reserve Board chairman, announced to the nation that they really were in agreement, despite having been caught fighting both publicly and privately.

The City of Tallmadge in Summit County was laid out by Rev. David Bacon as a community for Presbyterians and Congregationalists. It was his daughter, Delia, author and lecturer, who originated a theory that Shakespeare's plays were authored by Sir Francis Bacon. —AP

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Free-living teen close to despair

DEAR ABBY: Like so many others, I never thought I'd be writing you, but my whole life is so messed up I need your help.

I'm a 18-year-old girl and I feel like 35. My reputation is totally gone because I've slept with just about every guy I know. I made it through high school by the skin of my teeth. I've attempted suicide twice. I've seen a psychiatrist, but I can't get it together. All my friends have given up on me.

My family keeps wracking their brains to find out where they failed me. They really tried their best, but it was a game I played to see how much I could get away with.

I can't remember what it's like to feel respected or to respect myself. I am ready to say to hell with life because I'll never regain the love and respect of those I love.

There is nothing left to save. I can't even turn to God because I've let him down so often. Please help me.

HUNG-UP HARLOT

DEAR HUNG UP: You still value life and want to regain your self-respect, or you wouldn't have written.

Start by getting back into therapy. Put all your failures and mistakes behind you. God forgives. Accept Him into your life and let Him work His wonders. But first, get your head together by forgiving yourself. You can do it if you try. Write again and tell me how you are. I care.

DEAR ABBY: A friend called me and asked for a recipe she'd heard I had. A mutual friend had told her it was the most delicious casserole she'd ever tasted. Well, it was just a can of this and a package of that. A child could throw it together in five minutes. I was ashamed to tell her it was so simple, so I said it had been in my family for years and I promised my grandmother I wouldn't give it out.

This has been on my mind for days, Abby, and I feel terrible about it. I don't usually lie. I'd really like to square things with her, but I'm in so deep now I don't know how to, without making a liar out of myself.

TROUBLED CONSCIENCE

DEAR TROUBLED: Don't worry about "making a liar out of yourself." You already have. Now you must 'fess up'. (She'll understand.) Give her the recipe, and if it's as easy as you say it is, and as delicious as she heard it was, it will leave only a good taste in her mouth.

DEAR ABBY: A very dear friend of mine recently died of a terminal illness after fighting a valiant battle for two years.

Her sister, Mary (made up name), cried the loudest at the funeral. Yet Mary saw very little of her ailing sister. She could have been a great help to her because she had time and lived nearby.

After the funeral, Mary said, "I know I didn't see much of my sister when she was sick, but I just couldn't bear to see her in that condition. It would hurt me too much."

What is your opinion of such an excuse?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: It's a poor rationalization, but when a person doesn't want to do something, one excuse is as good as another.

Developer shuns right of way sale

No access granted city board to property off S. Elm Street

By RICK WHAITE
Record-Herald Staff Writer

The Washington C.H. Board of Education will not have access from its property next to McDonald's Restaurant off S. Elm Street to the newly dedicated Commercial Avenue.

Superintendent Edwin Nestor, in the school board's regular meeting Monday night, told the board members the project's developer did not want to sell the right of way.

Nestor had been instructed by the board at its last regular meeting Nov. 7 to meet with the land developer, Donald P. Woods and Washington C.H. City Manager George Shapter to discuss the possibility of obtaining access to the new street. The development plans for Commercial Avenue, which is located between McDonald's Restaurant and Washington Square Shopping Center, show it dead end before it reaches the school board-owned property.

Nestor said he met with Woods Nov. 8 and the developer said his project has been delayed because of the question of access to the school property. Woods reportedly pointed out to the superintendent that the board already has access off Glenn Avenue and from the Willard Street-Carolyn Road area.

In essence, Nestor told the board members, Woods was asking the board not to press the issue.

Board President Robert N. Highfield said, "The county engineer told me the platt has already been approved and if it's not acted on (by the City Planning Commission) within 30 days, it automatically is accepted."

Without any further course of action, the board must take a "wait and see" attitude. Nestor said there is nothing else the board can do.

The superintendent's report on community mental health services focused on the Edgewood Center in Greenfield, a recently opened clinic connected with the Scioto-Paint Valley Mental Health Center.

The Edgewood Center is designed as a resident or live-in clinic dealing with behavioral learning disorders. The center is currently operating out of a house and renovation is expected to be completed sometime next April. At that time the center would be capable of housing 12 to 15 resident students.

Until that time, students must be transported to and from the center. Nestor recommended, and the board approved, the payment of a 10-cent per mile rate for the transportation of one 12-year-old city student to and from the Greenfield center.

The city school board approved the recommended change of Records Day from Jan. 20 to Jan. 23 to facilitate mid-term testing in the city's schools. Records Day is used by teachers and administrators to update classroom and school records and gives students a day off. The change was requested by the superintendent because the holiday for Martin Luther King's birthday falls on Jan. 16, which would have left only three days in that week for mid-term testing.

IN OTHER action, the city school board:

—Approved the appointment of Richard Crooks as chairman of the Washington Senior High School science department;

—Approved payment of a $65-registration fee and expenses for newly elected school board member Mrs. Cathy Lee to attend an Ohio School Boards Association clinic in Cincinnati. The clinic is designed to orient new board members with the problems and issues confronting school boards;

—Accepted the notice of retirement and resignation, effective Mar. 31, 1978, of Charles Grieves, the city school fireman. Grieves has worked with the city schools for 19 years;

—Agreed to rent the Middle School auditorium to the local Kiwanis Club for the annual Teen Talent Show set for April 28. The board also agreed to allow the Fayette County Commission on Aging to use the high school's lunchroom for their potluck supper on Dec. 20;

—Approved the payment of $256 in mileage and expenses incurred by staff members who attended previously approved meetings and conferences in October;

—Approved an adjustment in salary for high school teacher Mary Fish, who was recently certified as having four years of service with the Columbus City Schools. She was being paid at a rate for three years experience;

—Approved a transfer of $95.69 from the sale of textbooks and supplemental readers to the educational supply fund to remove a deficit balance;

—Approved a bus route adjustment with appropriate pay for the driver from Robinson Road and the city's industrial park to the Middle School; and Accepted a request for an extension of maternity leave to Jan. 2 for Christie Duncan, a sixth grade teacher at the Middle School.

Clear skies overnight let temperatures fall to more seasonal levels across Ohio with daybreak readings in the upper 20s north to the upper 30s near the Ohio River.

By dawn, clouds had pushed into the central and southern counties as the forerunner of a storm that was trying to form in the foothills of the Rockies.

Winds were light and variable this morning, taking a little of the sting out of the low temperatures.

A chance of showers south and considerable cloudiness over the rest of the state was predicted for today with highs ranging from near 40 in the extreme north to about 50 south. Lows tonight will fall into the 30s north and central to the low 40s south.

Looking ahead to Thanksgiving, there will be a chance of mixed rain and snow in the northwest and rain elsewhere with highs in the mid 40s to the mid 50s.

Sheriff's deputies probe theft of 45 steel posts

About 45 steel fence posts were reported stolen Saturday from a field along West Lancaster Road near Jeffersonville.

The theft occurred sometime during the past three weeks, according to a Fayette County Sheriff's Department report.

Sixteen of the posts, belonging to Mrs. Robert Zimmerman of Jeffersonville, were taken from along a ditch at the intersection of West Lancaster Road and Ohio 734. The other 29 posts were removed from a field located southwest of the intersection, according to the report. The posts were valued at over $100.

Washington C.H. police officers reported a bicycle was stolen from in front of Jade's Recreation Hall, 246 E. Court St., Monday night.

However, 15-year-old Dennis E. Mootispaw, 1343 N. North St., who reported the theft occurred sometime between 6 and 7:10 p.m., later informed investigators he found the bike at the Lawson's store on N. North Street.

An unidentified man left the Stop and Go store, 15 Fayette Center, without paying for about $3 worth of gasoline Sunday, police officers reported.

The man reportedly asked the store clerk to put the gas in his truck and drove off when his request had been fulfilled. The incident occurred around 12:17 a.m.

John W. Bartruff of Sabina reported to sheriff's deputies vandals "peppered" his mailbox with a shotgun blast sometime between Saturday and Monday. Damage to the mailbox was not estimated.

Local FFA member cops regional electric award

Four members of the Future Farmers of America have been named regional recipients of the FFA Agricultural Electrification Proficiency Award sponsored by the Food and Energy Council, Inc., of Columbia, Mo., as a special project of the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

Alan McCollough of the Eagle Grove, Iowa FFA chapter was named the national winner in agricultural electrification at the 50th annual National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

The Southern Region winner was Greg Ricks of the Norman Park, Ga., FFA Chapter. Jeff Schlichter of the Miami Trace High School FFA Chapter was the Eastern Regional winner. The Western Region winner was Randy Kellogg of the Guthrie, Okla., FFA Chapter.

The agricultural electrification award is one of 19 agricultural proficiency awards presented annually by the National FFA Foundation to recognize accomplishments of FFA members pursuing careers in specific areas of agriculture. Applicants for the agricultural electrification proficiency award must describe projects they have completed demonstrating their knowledge and ability in the application of electricity to agriculture.

All FFA members who complete supervised experience programs in agricultural electrification as part of their vocational agriculture instruction are eligible for the award. To participate FFA members submit an application in which they answer questions in seven areas related to their supervised experience program in electrification. Requirements include listing electrical improvements or projects, listing skills learned as a result of instruction and practical application of lessons in agricultural electrification, and an inventory of electrical tools owned by the applicant at the time he entered the vocational agriculture program up to the time the application is submitted (usually 3-4 years for national applicants). Applicants are also asked to list safety precautions they feel are most significant in working with electricity and they must show activities outside the FFA in which they have participated to further their knowledge of agricultural electrification.

Faulty wiring on a newly purchased farm was the challenge awaiting Schlichter.

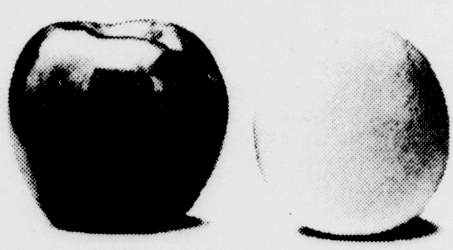

As a result of his studies in vocational agriculture, he was able to do all the necessary wiring and rewiring of the farm himself.

Apples to Apples?

If you're comparing health care plans for your company, you should be aware that although two plans may look alike, they can still be quite different. Make sure you're comparing exactly the same coverages... dollar for dollar... benefit for benefit... service for service.

Otherwise, it's like comparing apples to oranges.

Another comparison you should look at is the balance between benefits and cost... what you need versus what you can afford. And, it's especially important to make sure you and your employees are adequately protected from gaps in your coverage that could wipe out a life's savings.

If you're comparing plans, sit down and talk with a Blue Cross and Blue Shield representative. See how your health care program can be strengthened to better meet your group's specific needs. It will be worth the time... because apples to apples, it's awfully tough for anybody to beat a Blue Cross and Blue Shield plan.

FOR A BEAUTIFUL BIRD

Many of you will be tempted to stuff that turkey today so you won't have to fool with it Thanksgiving morning. DON'T. The dressing does not become completely chilled throughout when it is refrigerated inside the turkey cavity, thus we have a danger of spoilage. Do not combine the liquid and dry ingredients of the dressing and stuff the turkey cavity until you are ready to roast the bird.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture also warns strongly against roasting your turkey in the oven all night at a low temperature. This practice allows the bird to remain at a dangerous temperature for too many hours. Bacteria grow rapidly between 40 degrees - 120 degrees Fahrenheit. Keep your family safe. Allow time in the morning to cook your turkey at the regular temperature. Research has shown that the best roasting temperature to use for poultry is 325 degrees.

You'll need about 1/2 cup stuffing for each pound of ready to cook poultry. Fill the wishbone (neck) area lightly with stuffing. Fasten neck skin to back of bird with skewer. Stuff body cavity lightly. Tuck legs under bird, using skewers or string and shape wings akimbo style, that is, bring wing tips onto back. Insert a meat thermometer in the inner thigh muscle. Do not touch bone.

Place poultry breast side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not add water and do not cover pan. If desired, brush skin with oil or melted fat. If poultry browns early in the roasting period, cover the breast and drustick lightly with aluminum foil or moisten a thin cloth with fat and place it over the breast and legs to prevent overbrowning.

OR, if turkey is not too heavy to handle, it can be roasted breast-down for the first half of roasting time. If not stuffed, I put a stick of butter inside the cavity to self baste the breast. Insert thermometer after turkey is turned breast-side up. This breast down methods results in juicier white meat.

Test for doneness-At the half or two-thirds point of roasting, cut the string or skin to release the bird's legs. The meat is done when the temperature reaches 130 degrees to 185 degrees. Also check the stuffing temperature, this should be at least 165 degrees.

A second way to test for doneness is to press the fleshy part of the drumstick with protected fingers. When done the meat will feel soft, the drumstick will move easily, and the leg joint will give readily.

Plan your schedule so that the turkey is out of the oven 20 to 30 minutes before serving. It's much easier to carve.

Do not leave stuffing inside the turkey. Bacteria, which causes food spoilage, loves warm cozy places. Immediately after the feast, put the turkey, gravy, dressing, etc., in shallow containers and refrigerate. Freeze immediately in one-meal portions the turkey you will not use within three days.

Miss Sherry Lynn Mustain is bride of Dennis Garrison

Miss Sherry Mustain, daughter of Bob and Phyllis Mustain of 238 Hickory St., became the bride of Dennis Garrison, son of Mrs. Janet Winfough, of Washington C. H., and Herbert Garrison of Virginia Beach, Va.

Mr. Marvin Ringer performed the double ring ceremony at 3:30 p.m. in the South Side Church of Christ Oct. 23. The church vestry was centered by an arched 15-branch candelabra enhanced with white fuji mums, Sonia roses, and California ivy, flanked by pyramid candelabra arrangements of the same flowers. Matching candelabra arrangements flanked the bridal aisle pews.

Given in marriage by her father, Sherry wore a gown of candlelight silk organza designed with an empire bodice appliqued with Venise lace creating a mock bolero effect, wedding band neckline and long bishop sleeves. The A-line skirt enhanced in front with lace appliques and encircled at the hemline and train with narrow band of lace, flowed into chapel length. Her chapel length mantilla of silk illusion, scalloped with Venise lace and accented with scattered lace motifs, fell from a camelot headpiece. She carried a cascade of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and smilax.

Mrs. Jean Webster of Columbus, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Karen Russello of Columbus, Mrs. Parma Mustain, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Jami Achor, both of Washington C. H., cousin of the groom. All of the attendants wore floor length gowns of soft coral matte jersey with a removable chiffon poncho. Each carried a semi crescent bouquet of Sonia peach roses, wheat, California ivy, dried baby's breath showers of ivory lace and Sonia satin.

The flower girl, Miss Alicia Arthur, sister of the groom, was dressed like the other attendants. She carried a miniature bouquet like that of the bridesmaids.

Harold Everhart served as best man for the groom. Seating the wedding guests were John Morris, Bob Mustain, brother of the bride, and Karl Kellenberger, all of Washington C. H. Sean Arthur, brother of the groom, was the ringbearer.

Mrs. Mustain chose for her daughter's wedding a coral double knit gown. She had a corsage of Georgianna orchids. The groom's mother wore a dark brown and gold three piece suit with which she combined gold accessories. She had a corsage of gardenias. The grandmothers wore orchid corsages.

Hostesses for the reception in Mahan Hall were Mrs. Joleen Kelly, Mrs. Pat Mustain and Mrs. Sandy Smith. Mrs. Mel DaRif presided at the guest book.

The five-tiered wedding cake, topped with a nosegay of Sonia roses, was encircled with smilax and Sonia roses. Swags of smilax and nosegays of roses enhanced the cake table. The cake was flanked by five branch silver candelabra. The walls were covered with appropriate arrangements and the entrance was flanked with blooming fall plants, and foliage plants.

Music was presented by the Three J's of Wilmington. After a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple is now residing at 71 Rowe-Ging Road.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Garrison are graduates of Washington Senior High School. She is employed by Marilee's. Her husband, also a graduate of Wilmington College, is a salesman for Melvin Stone Company.

Mrs. LaVonne Creamer, organist, presented several wedding selections prior to the marriage ceremony.

Grandparents present for the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. James Achor, Mrs. Clarence Puckett and Mr. and Mrs. John Chaney.

Out of town guests came from Greenville, Xenia, Wilmington, Westerville, Cincinnati and Columbus.

Potatoes when boiled in their skins will taste much better if you use 1/4 cup of salt to each quart of water.

Cocoa will taste better if a pinch of salt is added to it.

You'll have delicious golden fried potatoes if you sprinkle them lightly with flour before frying.

If the Shoe Fits...

By WES COX

Are pre-walking shoes important?

The harm done by outgrown pre-walkers is very important. The younger the child, the softer the bones. Many children have the beginnings of bunions before they wear any shoes because their feet were bound in the feet of out-grown pajamas.

The pre-walking child should wear shoes only when the house is cold enough that he needs mittens on his hands. Parents marvel at the way their baby flexes his toes when they take his shoes off, but they seldom think of the fact that using those muscles is the only way known to strengthen them. Even good fitting shoes discourage foot exercise.

Plans being finalized

Rented floats lacking for Christmas parade

Fayette County Christmas Parade co-chairman Rick Stinson and Bart Mahoney met Monday to finalize plans for the Dec. 3 parade.

The major topic of discussion was floats for the parade. Stinson and Mahoney noted the glaring lack of rented floats for this year's parade and discussed the judging of homemade floats.

Businesses wishing to rent floats may contact the Chamber of Commerce office at 335-0761 on or before Wednesday. The Chamber has a list of persons who rent such floats. There will be no judging or awards for rented floats.

Due to an imbalance in the number of homemade floats entered in the preliminary categories, both the category classifications and cash award allotments have been altered somewhat.

The co-chairmen have designated three categories for homemade floats, religious groups, clubs-commercial firms, and junior youth groups.

There are currently six entries in the religious groups competition. They are last year's "best of show," the New Holland Methodist Youth Fellowship; the Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union; Job's Daughters-DeMolay; the Good Hope Methodist Church Youth Fellowship; the Peacemakers of the Church of God, and the Fayette Christian School. The first place float will receive $90 and second place will receive $45.

Five floats are entered in the junior youth division. They are the Happy Star Belles Bluebirds, Junior Girl Scout Troop 1056, the William Riley Family, the Rosettes Drill Team, and the Busy Belle Aire Bluebirds. This group will also receive $90 for first place and $45 for second place.

The third category, clubs and business firms, has 10 entries. This division will vie for three cash prizes. First place will receive $90, second place $45, and third place $35.

Entries to date are Distributive Education, Cooperative Office Education, Mead Inc., Pizza Hut, Fayette Memorial Hospital Foundation, Jud-i-ques, Welcome Wagon, HAND, Night Owls, and the Fayette County Life Squad.

JUDGING OF HOMEMADE floats will be held at 11 a.m. Dec. 3. All homemade floats should report to the Washington Senior High School parking lot no later than 10:45 a.m. on that date.

Each division will be judged separately, and no overall best of show will be awarded. Each division will have its own first place winner.

Signs indicating the winners will be available immediately after the judging and will be affixed to the floats prior to the parade. Thus, those watching the parade will be able to identify the top floats as selected by the judges.

The parade which is sponsored by the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce will step off promptly at 2 p.m. The parade line up will be published in the Record-Herald Nov. 29, and all participants should clip the line up and bring it with them the day of the parade. Each unit will be assigned a line up number.

The majority of parade expenses, which will exceed $1,000, are paid from Chamber membership dues. Financial assistance has also been furnished by the United Way Fund, the Fayette County Commissioners, the Rotary Club, and Coffman Window Grille.

Brickles heads Night Owls

David Brickles has been elected president of the Fayette County Night Owls Citizen Band Radio Club.

The election was held at the November meeting of the club and three other posts were filled. Cliff Warner will serve as vice president while Debbie Baughn and Jean Yarger were re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

The new officers will be installed at the club's January meeting.

A total of 78 Night Owls were presented certificates of appreciation during the meeting for their participation in the crime control program during Halloween. Specialist William Cales of the Washington C.H. Police Department made the presentation.

Recognition certificates were also presented to 175 members of the club who aided in the two-day jamboree held at the Fayette County Fairgrounds last month.

During the business session of the meeting, it was announced that a walker and $50 worth of linens had been purchased by the club for a family whose home had been gutted by fire. It was also agreed to make a $50 donation to a leukemia victim and to adopt his family as the club's Christmas project.

It was also reported at the November meeting that all the materials needed to construct the club's Christmas parade float had been collected. Work on the construction of the float is scheduled to begin this week.

New shopping mall opens in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 241,688-square-foot enclosed shopping mall, developed by Arlen Shopping Centers, Co., of Chattanooga, Tenn., will open today in south Columbus.

Nine department stores and specialty shops will be open at Southland Mall for grand opening ceremonies.

Traffic Court

Three persons were convicted of driving while intoxicated in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Monday.

Judge Gary C. Stout, who was sworn in Friday following his election Nov. 8, sentenced Jack N. Garrison, 33, 893 Potomac Circle, to seven days in the city jail with credit for the time he has already served.

He was also fined $300 and court costs for the drunk driving conviction. Judge Stout ordered Garrison to attend an alcohol treatment program at the Laurel Oaks Treatment Center near Wilmington in December and to pay the $95-tuition fee. If he attends the program, the judge ordered $100 of the fine to be suspended.

Garrison's right to drive was also suspended until he is properly licensed. At the time of his arrest by Washington C.H. police officers last Thursday, he was also cited with driving while under suspension. He was found guilty of that charge and fined $50 and costs.

Another local resident, Hubert L. Smith Jr., 28, of 410 East St., was sentenced to three days in jail, but the sentence was suspended on the condition Smith attend an alcohol treatment program at the Laurel Oaks center.

Smith was fined $300 and costs and his operator's license was suspended for 90 days with permission to drive to and from work. Judge Stout ordered Smith to pay his fine within 30 days.

Local police officers had also cited Smith for two other violations following a traffic accident Sunday at the Clark Oil Co. service station, 330 W. Court St.

Smith was found guilty of leaving the scene of the crash and sentenced to three days in jail and fined another $50 and costs. Smith was fined an additional $25, plus costs, after being convicted of reckless operation.

Rae J. Pollard, 24, of 1012 Lakeview Ave., was sentenced to three days in jail and fined $250 and costs for her conviction of drunk driving. She was cited Nov. 11 by Ohio Highway Patrol officers.

Burch C. Edwards, 63, 4671 U.S. 62-SW, was sentenced to two days in jail and fined $200 and costs after being convicted of operating a motor vehicle without a valid driver's license. He was also cited by state troopers on Nov. 11.

Arrested Nov. 8 by Fayette County sheriff's deputies, Harry V. Wheeler, 30, 715 Eastern Ave., was sentenced to two days in the county jail when he was found guilty of using a fictitious registration. He was also fined $100, plus costs.

The Municipal Court judge suspended a three-day jail term on Michael L. Moring, 21, 318 Broadway St., after he was found guilty of driving without a valid driver's license. The sentence was suspended on the condition Moring does not violate any laws for one year. He was fined $75 and costs.

Sheriff's deputies had cited the local man on Oct. 17.

Ohio Perspective

'Cash flow' problem studied by officials

By TOM DIEMER

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state of Ohio's general fund was $67.2 million in the red at the close of business Oct. 31, but state officials have a useful tool to deal with the paper shortage.

The villain is "cash flow," or rather lack of it, a condition that strikes the state during the closing months of a calendar year when expenses are up, and tax revenue is down.

"My hair gets gray in winter time," said budget Director William W. Wilkins, as he outlined the problem.

Wilkins expects expenditures to continue to outpace revenue until April when money from the corporate franchise tax on big business will be rolling in. The state has shown a paper deficit for four consecutive months.

In the meantime, Wilkins is relying on the total operating fund, a pool concept introduced in the previous biennium.

"What we're talking about here is the general fund balance," Wilkins says of the apparent deficit. "The state of Ohio has other funds on the books. The revenue from these other funds are used to alleviate problems experienced in the general fund."

In other words, the state borrows from itself to meet day-to-day obligations, when sales, income and corporate franchise taxes do not produce enough dollars to pay the freight.

The main sources tapped are the liquor and lottery funds and parts of the transportation fund — money that is not earmarked for a specific purpose.

"Federal welfare receipts are continuing to be the main sources of shortfall in receipts as they were $5 million short for the month, bringing the total shortage for the year up to $18.7 million," the Legislative Budget Office reports.

The net deficit for the state during the four-month-old fiscal year is only $11 million, according to Wilkins.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is paying Ohio less for Aid to Dependent Children and other welfare accounts because the state is paying less, due to lower caseloads and other factors. Lower state payments attract fewer federal dollars.

Most other revenue sources, including personal income taxes and sales taxes, are flowing in at levels close to original estimates, the budget office reports.

There are a few disappointments that suggest Ohioans are gambling less than usual.

An Octa man was found guilty of petty theft Monday and sentenced to six months in jail in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

Dean Moore, 21, of Octa, was sentenced to the six-month term in the Fayette County jail, however, Judge Gary C. Stout suspended all but 30 days of the sentence and gave the man credit for the time he has already served.

Moore received a fine of $300 and court costs and was ordered to make restitution for the items he failed to pay for Nov. 5. He had ordered food in the Royal Castle Restaurant in Jeffersonville and left without paying the $5.22 tab.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies arrested Moore on a private warrant Saturday morning.

Jeffersonville resident, Douglas L. Baker, 22, was convicted of assault during a hearing Monday and received a three-day suspended sentence on the condition he doesn't violate any laws for one year.

Baker was fined $150 and costs and was given 30 days to pay the fine. Sheriff's deputies had arrested the man on a private warrant on Nov. 14. He had been released on bond prior to his hearing Monday.

A Mount Sterling man charged with assault was released from custody after the case was dismissed at the request of the prosecuting witness.

Sheriff's deputies arrested David L. Rowland, 30, of Mount Sterling, for the charge on a private warrant Nov. 10. Judge Stout ordered the prosecuting witness to pay the court costs.

Dale E. Dawson, 24, of Springfield, found guilty of consuming alcohol in a motor vehicle, was fined $100, plus costs. Sheriff's deputies arrested Dawson on the charge Nov. 13 after stopping him for two traffic violations on U.S. 35 in Jefferson Township.

Five men signed waivers on charges of hunting on private property without permission during proceedings Monday.

All five paid $25 fine and costs. They were Randall D. Van Dyke, 23, New Marshall; Glendale L. Skidmore, 34, of Athens; Myron D. Hart, 28, of Guyssville; Roy M. Vannest, 42, Ravenswood, W.Va.; and Mark L. Douglas, 35, Athens. They had all been arrested by sheriff's deputies last Friday.

Rick L. Jester, 21, of 217 East St., signed a waiver for a charge of disorderly conduct by fighting and paid a fine and costs of $65. He was arrested early Saturday by local police officers following an incident in front of Weegie's Town Tavern, 224 E. Court St.

One other local resident signed a waiver during Municipal Court proceedings Monday.

Nineteen-year-old Gerald R. Henry, 201 Ohio Ave., was charged by Fayette County game protectors Nov. 4 with shooting a wild animal from a public road. He paid a $62-fine with costs.

Facilities expanded

Hospital parking project finished

Additional parking facilities at Fayette County Memorial Hospital have been completed, according to hospital administrator Robert L. Kunz.

Kunz told members of the hospital board of trustees Monday night that the project, which has greatly expanded parking facilities at the hospital, cost $6,096, a savings of nearly $4,000 on the original bid.

Kunz called the saving a pleasant surprise explaining that the low cost of the project was realized because of an error in calculating the square footage of the parking lot.

Five audit reports were submitted to the board of trustees Monday night, according to Kunz. The reports, known as Medical Care Evaluation (MCE) reports, are mandated by the state and the hospital's medical staff must complete them for the hospital to receive accreditation.

The MCE reports concern certain diseases treated at the hospital.

A slide show presentation concerning the hospital foundation was presented to board of trustees. The presentation, which included pictures taken at the local hospital, was put together by the hospital staff.

Board members present at the meeting were Denzil Leggett, Louise Rodgers, Dr. T. G. Hancock, Taylor Groff, Milbourne (Pete) Flea, and Harris Willis.

Kunz released the monthly statistical report Monday night.

During October, there were 377 admissions at the hospital accounting for 2,156 patient days. The percentage of occupancy in the hospital was 69 per cent overall and 78 per cent in medical-surgical wings.

The average state per patient was 6.03 days and 6.79 days for medical-surgical patients.

Kunz reported 44 births at the hospital during October representing a 4 per cent increase for the year.

There has also been a significant increase in cases treated in the emergency room this past year. A total of 1,475 emergency cases were treated last month.

The hospital laboratory conducted 9,959 tests, 1,559 x-rays were given, 355 physical treatments were offered, and 435 respiratory treatments were given. There were 157 surgical procedures conducted in October. Of those 157 operations, 75 were for major surgery. The actual cost per patient day at the hospital was $135.77 as compared to the national average of $185.10 a day. The average cost per patient stay was set at $794.86 as compared to the national average of $1,286.

TV Viewing

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Another season of Jacques Cousteau's underwater specials always is good news. The good news, a series called "The Cousteau Odyssey," starts on public TV tonight in most cities.

His one-hour premiere show — there'll be three more this season — concerns a World War I controversy: the sinking in 1916 of a British hospital ship, the Britannic, in the Aegean Sea near Greece.

No wounded were aboard at the time, although the Britannic, sister ship of the Titanic, carried 1,136 persons — nurses, doctors and the crew. Fortunately, all but 30 survived the sinking.

Cousteau & Co. set out in this well-photographed show to explore the sunken ship and such questions as: —Was the Britannic sunk by a German torpedo or a mine?

—Was it, in violation of the rules of war, carrying either war material or fresh troops headed for combat?

—Why did the huge ship, supposedly made sturdier after the Titanic's fatal pause to take on ice, sink so quickly? The show opens with Cousteau chatting about the sinking with eight elderly survivors, all but one convinced the ship was torpedoed.

Then the deep-dive research gets under way. As with many Cousteau specials, there's an almost-obligatory moment of mild tension.

Seems the crew of his ship, the Calypso, even though aided by sonar, has trouble finding the sunken hulk of the Britannic.

But all ends well, of course, and a three-man team of divers is dispatched 370 cold, dangerous feet beneath the Aegean to study the barnacle and coral-encrusted remains of the ship.

Wearing tanks of oxygen, nitrogen and helium, they only can stay down 15 minutes because of the extreme pressure. Then they must spend nearly three hours in a decompression chamber.

It's hard, physically difficult work for young men. But even Cousteau, at 67, makes the dive — which says something not only about his curiosity but also of a wonderful spirit undamaged by age.

An equally moving moment comes when Sheila Mitchell, 86, a volunteer nurse aboard the Britannic when it sank, eagerly climbs in a special diving saucer for a close-up look at the ship.

An animated, lively woman who now lives in Edinburgh, Scotland, she obviously is having the time of her life as she takes her first look at the colors of Cousteau's underwater world.

As for the answers Cousteau sought to the sinking, well, suffice it to say they'll disappoint those who thought the Britannic carried war goods or was done in by a heartless German U-boat captain.

The show was made for KCET as part of a three-season series the Atlantic Richfield Co. has bankrolled for nearly $4 million. If the premiere is typical, the bankroll is being well-spent.

Striking Greyhound workers back on jobs in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 12-hour wildcat strike at the local Greyhound Lines terminal ended Monday as national negotiations between the company and the Amalgamated Transit Union moved forward in Arizona.

Local strikers returned to their jobs shortly after noon Monday following an unauthorized walkout linked to national contract negotiations.

About 35 employees had been off their jobs since midnight. Five pickets were fired for refusing to stop the strike, but were reinstated when the strike ended.

Eight persons were arrested during the picketing. One was charged with disorderly conduct, one with jaywalking and six with criminal trespassing.

All workers returned to work at 12:30 p.m. with no explanation to the management of the local terminal.

"They had a meeting and then started coming back to work," Harold Skinner, Greyhound assistant district manager, said. "It was a surprise to us."

The walkout was organized by a small number of the approximately 250 terminal employees who are members of Local 1042 of Amalgamated Transit Union. Some of the drivers and all of the maintenance and terminal personnel were off their jobs, Skinner said. Bus travel was not seriously interrupted.

The short strike followed a recess of day-long talks Sunday in Scottsdale, Ariz. between the national union and Greyhound officials.

But on Monday national union negotiators planned to present a counter proposal to company officials as the two sides worked to prevent a Thanksgiving holiday strike.

Owen Jones, president of the union's

Greyhound Council, said in a telegram to union local presidents Monday a proposal presented by Greyhound at the end of Sunday's negotiations was unacceptable. But Jones said the offer did show some movement.

Jones told union leaders in the telegram that all union members should remain on the job, "as long as the negotiations show some progress."

Greyhound officials declined comment on the union rejection, nor would they disclose the contents of their Sunday evening proposal.

If an agreement is not reached by midweek, the union officials have said there will be a strike that could strand thousands of Thanksgiving travelers across the nation.

Union members voted overwhelmingly Friday to reject Greyhound's offer of a $300 bonus, continued cost-of-living provisions and a profit sharing program.

The national union represents about 14,000 Greyhound employees.

Home insulation grant received

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio has been granted $1,384,000 in federal funds to help low income families prepare for the winter, Sens. John Glenn and Howard M. Metzenbaum, both D-Ohio, have announced.

The funds will go to the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development and be administered by local community agencies to families who need help insulating their homes.

In order to be eligible for assistance, families must be considered below poverty level. A maximum of $400 in assistance is available.

Rock star ready for Beatle movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rock star Alice Cooper, on leave from a New York alcoholic treatment center, was on the West Coast over the weekend to film the Beatles-tribute film "Sgt. Pepper."

Cooper — who gained fame with such on-stage antics as choking chickens and throwing watermelons — admitted himself to an upstate New York alcoholic treatment facility a month ago. He said he would return to the hospital after completing the movie scenes.

Cooper, 30, plays a money-grubbing religious cult leader in the film, which also stars Peter Frampton and the Bee Gees.

Moore receives fourth-year award

Blue Lion, Panther athletes honored at two banquets

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor
Nearly 100 Fayette County athletes, managers, trainers and cheerleaders were honored at two separate banquets last night. Washington C.H. held its annual fall sports banquet, honoring football, volleyball and golf team members while Miami Trace held a combined volleyball-cross country banquet.

At Washington C.H., senior John Moore became the first Blue Lion in history to receive a fourth year award in any sport. Moore has lettered in golf since his freshman year and that is a first for Washington Senior High School athletics. All-league volleyball members Brenda Carroll and Kathy Hanners, along with lone senior Charlotte Brennan, were the top award-getters at the Panther banquet. Scott Halterman and Ken Ward of the cross country team also received awards for the first-year team. The Miami Trace volleyball teams turned in a combined record of 23-9 this season as the varsity went 11-7 and the reserves sported a fine 12-2 mark. The varsity, coached by Rita Krammes, made it into district competition before losing to East Liverpool. The reserves were coached by Suellen Radabaugh. The 11-man cross country team made an excellent showing in their first year of existence. They competed in five meets in addition to the league meet and the sectionals. Harold Cook was the coach. Moore walked off with most of the golf awards at the Blue Lion banquet. In addition to his fourth year award, he was a member of the All-SCOL golf team with the third lowest stroke average in the league. Jerry Mount, just a freshman, was also an all-leaguer while Gary Fisher received a three-year award and honorable mention in the league. The Lion linksters finished second in the league match behind Circleville but sported over 30 victories for Washington's second best golf team in history. Rick Crooks was the coach. Mindy Smith, Becky Tolle and Debbie Wheat dominated the volleyball awards, each receiving three-year awards. Wheat and Smith were both all-leaguers, Wheat making the seven-member first team. Karan Mount was the coach for the volleyball in her first year. Coaches John Taylor, Terry Feick and Bill Harris introduced the 33-member freshman football team presented all of them with freshman numerals. Sixteen reserve football awards were presented by coach Steve Ross in addition to one certificate of participation. In addition, awards for the statisticians, managers and trainers were passed out. Lion head coach Paul Ondrus gave out 24 awards to his varsity football team and highlighted the Washington C.H. up-and-down season. Individual trophies went to Bob Shaw, most defensive points; Duane Six, most consistent lineman; Joe Smith, most improved player; Chet Hollar, most solo tackles; and Larry Brickles, most valuable player. Jeff Elliott, Terry Wilson and Shaw received third-year awards. Receiving second-year honors were Tony West, Bill Runnels, Gary Huysman, Bob Runnels, Steve Qualls, Mike Turner, Six, Hollar and Brickles. Bob Fridley, Todd Terrell, John Belles, John Heinz, Jim McDonald, Jim Bennett, Tate Wilson, Doug Stewart, Fred Bryan, Jim Matson, Bruce Cupp and Smith all garnered first-year awards. Trainers Todd Schwartz and Brian Stackhouse were honored while Russell Lindsey received a second-year honor. Statisticians Jo Leggett, Tammy Schneider and LeTonda Bailey were also honored along with managers Andy Surritt and John Hildrith.

Michigan vaults to No. 4

Texas, 'Bama, Sooners hold onto top three spots

By HERSHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer
Texas, Alabama and Oklahoma held onto the top three spots in The Associated Press college football poll today while Rose Bowl-bound Michigan replaced arch-rival Ohio State in the No. 4 position. However, should Texas stumble in either of its last two games, starting with No. 12 Texas A&M next weekend, a wide-open race is in prospect for the national championship, with only eighth-ranked Ohio State among the Top Ten showing as many as two defeats. Texas, a 29-7 winner over Baylor last Saturday and the nation's only unbeaten-untied team, received 60 of 64 first-place votes and 1,272 of a possible 1,280 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters in the next-to-last poll of the regular season. The final regular-season poll will be released at 6:30 p.m. EST next Monday, with the national championship poll following the bowl games. Alabama and Oklahoma were idle last weekend. 'Bama received one first-place vote and 1,044 points while Oklahoma also earned one nomination as the No. 1 team and 998 points. Michigan, which turned back Ohio State 14-6, climbed from fifth to fourth with 912 points while Notre Dame, which crushed Air Force 49-0, moved up from sixth to fifth with one first-place ballot and 732 points. Arkansas, No. 8 a week ago, jumped to sixth with 606 points for a 47-7 rout of Southern Methodist. The other first-place vote went to Kentucky, which defeated Tennessee 21-17 and held onto seventh place with 600 points. Ohio State barely made eighth place with 486 points over Penn State, idle last weekend. The Nittany Lions received 483 points while Pitt, also idle, remained No. 10 with 398 points. The Second Ten consists of Nebraska, Texas A&M, Clemson, Washington, North Carolina, San Diego State, UCLA, Brigham Young, Arizona State and Florida State. Last week it was Nebraska, Arizona State, Florida State, Texas A&M, Clemson, Texas Tech., BYU, North Carolina, Washington and UCLA. Texas Tech was the only member of last week's Top Twenty to drop out. The Red Raiders suffered an embarrassing 45-7 whipping by Houston shortly after accepting a bid to the Tangerine Bowl. Replacing Texas Tech in the rankings was San Diego State, which boosted its record to 9-1 by trouncing Florida State, Tech's Tangerine Bowl opponent, 41-16. San Diego appeared in the rankings for the first time this season. The Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press college football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points based on 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

Bostock, Torrez sign multi-million contracts

By The Associated Press
Baseball's free agents are on the move again. But this time, they'll have to share some of the spotlight with a coach and two of baseball's most successful executives. Free agents Lyman Bostock, Mike Torrez and Dick Drago signed multi-year contracts Monday, but they weren't the only members of baseball's family who packed their bags and were heading elsewhere. Harry Dalton was named as the Milwaukee Brewers' new general manager while New York Yankees' General Manager Gabe Paul and Coach Bobby Cox appear ready to take over as chief executive in Cleveland and manager of the Atlanta Braves respectively. Bostock became, in his own words, the highest paid player in the history of baseball when he signed a reported five-year contract with the California Angels for $3 million. "As far as I know, I'm the highest paid ballplayer," Bostock said. The 27-year-old outfielder, who played out his option with the Minnesota Twins, batted .336 this season, second in the American League to teammate Rod Carew. Bostock hit 14 home runs, 12 triples, three doubles, and drove in 90 runs. He had 199 hits and scored 104 runs. The Boston Red Sox, who always seem to have plenty of hitters in the lineup, moved to bolster their pitching staff and dug deep into the cash till to sign veteran pitchers Torrez and Drago. Torrez, who won two games for the Yankees in the World Series, reportedly agreed to a seven-year $2 million contract after a 17-13 season. "We think Torrez will be a big help to us," Red Sox General Manager Haywood Sullivan said. "In fact, when I called our manager, Don Zimmer, this morning to tell him the news, he laughed and said 'Oh, the pressure really on us to win now.'" Drago, who had a previous stint with Boston, had a 6-4 record while pitching mostly in relief for the California Angels and Baltimore Orioles this season. Dalton, who helped build two world champions at Baltimore in the 60s and early 70s, stressed that hiring a manager wasn't his top priority as he took over in Milwaukee. "Unlike some of you, I don't think there's a great urgency to name a manager. I have no self-imposed deadlines."

Fourth quarter score beats Green Bay

'Skins barely escape Pack, 10-9

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins still have hopes of making the National League Football playoffs as the wild card team, even if they almost were beaten by a spunky young club from Green Bay with the league's greenest quarterback. It all came down to three plays in Monday night's television special. Scrambling Joe Theismann, under a heavy rush by the Packers defense, searched out running back Mike Thomas for a seven-yard touchdown pass to give the Redskins a 10-9 victory over the Packers. The fourth-quarter score was set up by a 30-yard rifle shot from Theismann to Danny Buggs and a 12-yard scramble by the Redskins quarterback that put the ball at the seven. "It was a tough one to lose," said Green Bay Coach Bart Starr. "The big play was the third down pass to Buggs and the scramble by Theismann was the back-breaker." Theismann, who had a sporadic night in hitting only 10 of 21 for 124 yards and one interception, did not get into the groove until near the end. "I didn't throw well," he said. "I wasn't getting set. I saw the dogs (biters) coming and I hurried myself." With previously untried quarterback David Whitehurst replacing the injured Lynn Dickey for Green Bay, Washington Coach George Allen tried to confuse the rookie by "using every dog in our play book, including a couple of new ones." But Whitehurst, an eighth round draft choice from Furman, wasn't rattled, completing 12 of 24 for 144 yards though he suffered three interceptions in the second half — none of which the Skins managed to convert into scores. Whitehurst was sacked six times for 33 yards. Whitehurst said the turnovers did hurt the team while the defensive unit "really played a hell of a game." The rookie said he thought Washington would not score again after Chester Marcol broke a 3-3 tie with a 42-yard field goal in the third period. Marcol earlier had a 40-yard placement and Washington's Mark Mosley hit one from 35 yards. After the Redskins scored the touchdown, Green Bay got another 44-yard field goal from Marcol with 4:16 remaining in the game, electing not to try for a first down on fourth-and-four. The Redskins now stand at 6-4 and in third place in the NFC East behind Dallas 8-2 and St. Louis 7-3. They have a slim chance to make the playoffs as a wild card entry. They still have games remaining with both the Cardinals and Cowboys, including a contest with Dallas Sunday.

Two agencies eye fee-gouging attorneys

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — Over three centuries ago William Shakespeare recognized the public's exasperation with lawyers. A revolutionary leader in one of his plays advised his followers: "The first thing we do, let's kill all the lawyers."

While no one today is suggesting such radical remedies, the Justice Department and Federal Trade Commission are joining forces against fee-gouging among America's 433,000 mouthpieces.

Despite a recent Supreme Court ruling that lawyers may advertise their services and prices, most real competition is still being stifled by outdated strictures of self-serving bar associations. The federal government has already hauled the American Bar Association into court on charges of illegally restraining its members from advertising.

Now FTC and Justice Department investigators are quietly studying whether there has been a massive conspiracy to prevent enterprising lawyers from selling their services in the marketplace like other ordinary businessmen.

The investigators are also looking into charges that some greedy lawyers are putting the squeeze on prepaid legal insurance plans. These plans protect their subscribers from catastrophic legal bills by offering all legal services for a set fee. But lawyers who work with the prepaid groups allegedly have been harassed and pressured by high-powered attorneys and legal groups that want to preserve their own inflated fees.

Top Justice Department officials are concerned that the ballooning cost of litigation has risen beyond the grasp of lower-and-middle-class families. They want to abolish regulations that force people to hire a lawyer for simple, routine matters such as a title search.

The unprecedented scrutiny of lawyers is the first step in a major new effort by Justice and FTC investigators to focus the antitrust spotlight on once-sacred businesses. FTC Chairman Michael Pertschuk and the Justice Department's antitrust chief, John Shenefield, privately decided last month to hold your "summit" meetings a year to coordinate their investigations. Their first tete-a-tete is scheduled next month. Their staffs, meanwhile, will be meeting on a weekly basis.

The two agencies have cast wary eyes on a possible conspiracy in the pharmaceutical industry to maintain high prices on certain drugs. The FTC is already probing anti-competitive practices in the automobile, insurance, oil and chemical industries, and among doctors.

The Justice Department, meanwhile, is taking a hard look at monopolistic practices among the giant corporations that dominate the fields of energy, computers, and communications.

The effort, ironically, is being spearheaded by Shenefield, who is trying to shed his image as a pro-industry lawyer and don the armor of an antitrust crusader. As a private lawyer, Shenefield represented the American Bar Association in its battle to maintain restrictions on legal advertising.

But one colleague told us that Shenefield is now determined to become "the Wally Hickel of the Justice Department." Hickel was a corporate executive who became an aggressive pro-environment Interior Secretary.

Senate Slap: Washington's armchair analysts are buzzing over the Senate slap at Marion Edey, whom President Carter wanted as an environmental advisor.

He nominated her to the White House Council on Environmental Quality; she was turned down by the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee.

But contrary to the prevailing gossip, the slap was not really aimed at the president. Nor is the official explanation entirely true that she was rejected because the senators distrusted her environmental views.

She was slapped down because she had the temerity last year to rate senators on environmental issues. As chairwoman of the League of Conservation Voters, she was responsible for the ratings. Too many committee members remembered how she had rated them when it came their turn this month to vote on her nomination.

This reportedly offended Muskie's powerful staff aide, Leon Billings, who was asked by a lobbyist whether he intended to oppose Edey. "You're damn right!" responded Billings. He didn't return our calls when we attempted to get his version of the incident.

The committee's resounding rejection of Edey would normally end her career as a White House adviser. But President Carter hasn't given up. He has made personal calls on her behalf to several senators, including Chairman Randolph. Carter's peanut brigade is also lobbying behind the scenes to salvage her nomination.

Will purchases continue?

Russian grain buys eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the big questions on the minds of farmers and many others today is whether the Soviet Union will continue buying U.S. grain as it did last week or whether it may be nearing the end of its current round of purchases.

A week ago the Soviets kicked off the first new round of purchases since Sept. 19. By the end of business Friday the Agriculture Department reported that about 1.6 million metric tons of U.S. wheat and corn had been sold for delivery through next Sept. 30.

The purchases disclosed last week raised to about 4 million tons sold to the Soviet Union for delivery in 1977-78, the second year of a five-year pact committing it to buy a minimum of six million tons annually.

earlier purchases, has bought around one-fourth of the full 15 million tons U.S. officials have indicated they may buy, the balance may be delayed until later.

One theory to support this possibility is that the Soviets may decide to wait until more is learned about 1978 U.S. grain production, including how farmers may participate in programs in the works to curb wheat and corn plantings next year.

On the other hand, some authorities believe the Soviets already have made arrangements through foreign subsidiaries of private companies doing business in the United States for the entire 15 million tons and now are only concerned about scheduling those deliveries through next Sept. 30.

Since the U.S. stockpile of wheat and corn is so huge — the most since the early 1960s — there is no alarm indicated that the Soviet sales will endanger domestic supplies or trigger unexpected rises in U.S. consumer food prices.

Another factor involves China and whether it may turn to the United States for wheat after ignoring the U.S. supply since 1974-75. Rumors circulated last week that China already has bought some U.S. wheat, but department officials said they had no evidence to confirm any sales.

Bitter cold grips Plains

By The Associated Press
Bitter cold gripped the northern Plains today and a storm dumped up to eight inches of new snow on southern Idaho and southwestern Wyoming, where as much as 18 inches of snow fell in a record-breaking autumn blizzard over the weekend.

The latest storm battered Utah on Monday with winds gusting to 100 mph, damaging houses and closing roads with blowing snow. Little new snow was reported in that state.

As well as continued heavy snow warnings for parts of Idaho and Wyoming, travelers' advisories were posted for portions of Oregon, the northern California mountains, northern Nevada and northwestern Utah. Temperatures dipped as low as 13 degrees below zero early today in Montana.

The storm also brought some relief to drought-stricken northern California, dumping up to 6 1/2 inches of rain in Marin County. However, officials said the area would need nine more such storms to end the drought.

The weekend storm was evident only in a gale over Lake Superior, northern Lake Michigan and Lake Huron. Eight-foot waves were expected along the eastern side of Lake Michigan, which braced for lowland flooding and beach erosion.

Early morning showers continued in a band from eastern New England across Virginia and the southern Appalachians, over the central Gulf Coast into the northwestern Gulf of Mexico as well as over southern Florida.

Early morning temperatures around the nation ranged from 13 degrees below zero at Havre, Mont., to 76 at Key West and West Palm Beach, Fla.

The national forecast called for widespread snow over the central and northern plateau region through the northern Rockies. Rain was predicted for the central and northern Pacific Coast with snow in higher elevations. A few snow showers will dot the northern Plains and upper Mississippi Valley.

Rain showers were forecast to scatter over the middle and southern Atlantic Coast states, the Gulf states and the Tennessee and Ohio valleys.
